

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

Arbitrary knowledge and language is retained, manipulated, and transformed according to a universal grammar that defines the mind's innate action on language, or the "deep" structure and meaning of language, in analogue and digital devices and software according to operations and knowledge network structures, including programmable digital bytes configured into epistemic moments and parse trees made therefrom, that emulate the mind's cognitive action synthetically.